

A function f is a mathematical object that assigns its inputs, or domain, to its outputs, or range. The notation $f : A \rightarrow B$ means that the function has a domain A and range B . The notation $f(a)$ where $a \in A$ denotes the element of B to which a is assigned to.